Ask Common Pleas Court to Act on Protest of Dry Forces

CLAIM IRREGULAR

Say Signatures in Indelible pencil do Not Comply With the Law.

Columbus, Sept. 26.—Dry leaders here today are hopeful that the Ohio courts will keep off the November ballots the proposed amendment to the state constitution authorizing manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer and light wines.

The Franklin County Common Pleas Court will be asked to act today on the application of George S. Hawke, Cincinnati, that Secretary of State Smith be restrained from placing the proposed amendment on the ballots. It is planned to take the case to the Appellate Court, immediately so that the appellate judges can hand down a decision not later than Thursday.

If the decision is not announced before Thursday, it is claimed the Secretary of state would be compelled, under the law, to send the beer-wine proposal to the county election boards for printing on the November ballots.

Dry leaders who have inspected the signatures to the wet's petitions filed in the Secretary of State's office, claim that not more than 25 per cent of the 238,000 signatures are in pen and ink as required by the state constitution. They contend that if the courts rule that an indelible pencil is not a legal substitute for pen and ink the beer-wine proposal will not be submitted at the November election because it would be necessary for the wetts to obtain 150,000 new signatures in 44 counties. The drys claimed the wetts cannot obtain that many new signatures in time to submit the proposal at the November election.

Last week the Supreme Court of Ohio decided that the Secretary of State shall place the proposed 2.75 per cent beer amendment on the ballot at the November election.

The majority held that no officer or tribunal may interfere, either with the enactment of laws or the amendment of the Constitution while the same is in process, if such legislation if enacted, or constitutional amendment if adopted, will be in conflict with the Constitution, state or federal.

The majority of the court held that these questions are and must be reserved for continuation and determination after the legislature or constitution-making body shall have fully performed its function and such new law or constitutional amendment shall have become effective. The court did not pass upon the constitutionality of the wet proposal.

The arguments before the Court lasted an entire half day. The case came before the court on petition of the wetts for a writ of mandamus to compel the Secretary of State to place the beer proposal on the ballot.

The dry attorneys argued that the wetts are asking the Court to compel the Secretary of State to do an unlawful act, as the proposed beer amendment is clearly in conflict with the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law, and that no state, through its Constitution or by statute can nullify the supreme law of the land.

The attorneys pointed out that the Secretary of State had taken an oath to support the Constitution of the United States and that he had acted in conformity with that oath when he refused to place on the ballot a proposal in conflict with the Federal Constitution.

TWO NEAR DEATH AFTER ACCIDENT

Elyria, O., Sept. 26.—Two are near death, two were badly injured and six others in another machine escaped serious injury today when two auto loads of Elyria high school students met in a head on collision at a street intersection.

SENATOR WATSON DIES SUDDENLY EARLY TUESDAY

Georgia Democrat Succumbs Following Illness Of One Week

Washington, Sept. 26.—Senator Thomas B. Watson, of Georgia, died suddenly early today at his home in Chevy Chase, Md., following a week's serious illness with asthma, from which he suffered for about ten years.

He was 66 years old on September 5. Coming to the senate on March 4, 1921, as an "anti-Wilson, anti-league and anti-war measures Democrat," Watson became one of the national capital's most picturesque figures. His services here had not prevented him from continuing as the publisher and editor of his newspaper, the Columbia Sentinel, and on Sunday night, apparently in improved health, he dictated editorials for the next issue.

Senator Watson is survived by his wife, who returned to the Watson home in Thompson, Ga., last spring after a severe illness; one brother, W. A. Watson, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Clait, both of Thompson, Ga.

Born in Columbia County, Georgia, Sept. 5, 1858, the son of John so and Anna Watson, Tom Watson studied two years at Mercer University aught school and was admitted to the bar in 1875, practicing in Thomson, Ga.

Tom Watson first appeared in Washington in 1891, when he was elected to the fifty-second congress as a populist. He was a candidate and claimed the election in 1892 and 1894, but his opponent received the certificate.

While in congress Watson secured the first appropriation for the free delivery of rural mails.

Watson was for many years an outspoken opponent of the Roman Catholic Church and his book, the Roman Catholic Hierarchy, published in 1910, caused him to be prosecuted in the federal courts.

Watson entered the race for the U. S. senate in 1920 as an "anti-Wilson anti league and anti war measure Democrat." He received the nomination over Senator Hoke Smith and Gov. Hugh M. Dorsey in the Democratic primary and was elected in the fall over Harry S. Edwards, a league of nations independent.

Although he participated actively in discussions of most of the important questions that came before the senate since March 1921, Senator Watson had an especial interest in those questions growing out of the war. His sensational charges relating to the mistreatment of American soldiers in France to lead to a senatorial investigation.

"The ku klux klan sent me threatening letters," Gilroy explained when he was taken into custody. "I thought when the knock came on my door that they were going to kill me."

Giant Liner Aquitania In Terrific Hurricane

Seventy Five Mile Gale Washes Up Waves Ninety Feet High—Storm is Worst of Equinoctial Season in Years—Ship Riding Safely Through

On Board Steamship Aquitania, in Mid Atlantic, Sept. 26.—(By Wireless)

—The giant Cunard liner, Aquitania, bound for New York today, is riding placidly through one of the most terrific hurricanes in the long maritime career of her commander.

A 75 mile gale is washing up waves ninety feet in height which roll by the side of the liner like moving mountains.

The storm is one of the worst of the equinoctial seasons in years. It began on Sunday. By Sunday night the wind had risen to a gale, lashing the seas into white capped billows that swept over the decks.

Everything movable was lashed down and the seamen went about their work in oilskins.

An investigation of the blast revealed that it was caused by the explosion of the compressed air tank in the building. It was at first thought that a bomb had caused the explosion. No lives were lost but in addition to Covert who was possible fatally injured, four others received serious injuries.

The explosion occurred just as a shift of boiler workers were about to enter the building to work on the

BORAH TO ENGAGE IN HOTTEST FIGHT OF CAREER AT HOME

Restoration of Primary is Issue He Must Tackle Soon.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, is going "back home" this week to engage in one of the hottest political fights of his tempestuous public career.

Restoration of the direct primary in Idaho, upon which may hinge his re-election to the senate two years hence, is the issue he must tackle in the face of the stiffest kind of opposition from within his own party.

If he loses the battle the much agitated third party movement may find him willing to assume its leadership in a nation wide campaign to prevent the direct primary from being stamped out by the Republican old guard.

Borah has thus far declined to commit himself publicly regarding the definite proposal made to him that he be the presidential candidate on a third party ticket in 1924. Political sharps at the national capital are fully aware that considerable pressure has been exerted to induce him to lead the third party movement.

FORD'S SHARP CRITICISM ANSWERED BY HOOVER

Washington, Sept. 26.—Henry Ford's sharp criticism of the policy of the government in directing the distribution of coal during and since the strike brought a formal though brief reply today from Secretary of Commerce Hoover: Hoover said:

"Mr. Ford has not had the whole of the information as to the coal situation or the actions of the government in the matter so that his conclusions as to official action are consequently in error.

"His desires to secure a more reasonable price for coal are really commendable and in entire accord with the efforts of the government."

KAISER WILHELM TO MARRY SOON

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II.
Princess Hermine of Reuss

Despite opposition of his family and the royalist party in Germany, ex-kaiser Wilhelm, shown in his latest photograph, with his shaggy white beard, is to be married in November to Princess Hermine von Schoenaich-Carolath, daughter of the Prince of Reuss and widow of a German cavalry officer. She is the mother of five children, though only thirty-five years of age, while the Kaiser is nearly twice her age.

TELLS EXPERIENCE WITHIN CASTLE OF EX-KAISER'S FIANCE

Editorial Note: The following dispatch gives a thrilling account of an unceremonious visit paid by the Berlin correspondent of International News Service, S. D. Weyer to the Silesian castle—home of Princess Hermine von Schoenaich-Carolath, of the ancient house of Reuss, the bride-to-be of the former German Kaiser. Mr. Weyer was a passenger on an airplane which crashed on the princess' estate Sunday, during a flight, an account of which was published by International News Service yesterday. Mr. Weyer and another member of the airplane party escaped unhurt, but two others on the machine were injured. All were taken into the princess' castle where they were treated as guests. It was the first time a newspaper correspondent had entered the home of the woman who is to be the future wife of the one time German warlord. Interesting revelations were made concerning the lifelong friendship of the princess and her betrothed—the former emperor.

Castle Saabor, Silesia, Sunday, via Berlin, Sept. 26.—This is being written in the library of the princess Hermine von Reuss-Schoenaich-Carolath, the bride to be of the ex-kaiser of Germany. On a couch lies Captain Ludwig Hasenpflug, former German staff officer, nursing a wrenched hip and bad contusions. Beside him kneels Tons Raab, famous German war "ace."

Now and then the door opens and the princess softly enters with whispered inquiries as to how the patient is getting on.

In a freshly ploughed field, a few yards from the castle, lies the wreckage of airplane D-82, which, after circling the castle, suddenly turned turtle.

At the home of the castle's chief forester lies Captain Wilhelm Strunk, former Austrian army officer, airman and soldier of fortune. Captain Strunk, who had been captured by the Russians in the great war, twice walked from his Siberian prison camp to the Chinese frontier and twice was recaptured and taken back. He succeeded in escaping the third time. Later he served as an aviator on the Plave river front. After the war he served as pilot of the airplane which carried Enver Pasha, the famous Turkish soldier of fortune to freedom, after he had been seized in Kovno while on his way from Germany to Moscow. Strunk once had fought with the British army in India.

Captain Strunk was the more seriously injured of the two. He suffered from a bad contusion of the brain.

It is now growing late in the afternoon and the princess has just entered the room.

Must Remain Overnight.

"I insist," said she, "that you shall all remain here overnight. I have just had a wing of the castle fixed up

TO WRITE NAMES ON JUDICIAL BALLOTS

Columbus, Sept. 26.—Secretary of State Smith today ordered that space be left on the November judicial ballots where voters can write in the names of candidates for state supreme judge for the short term of less than two months—November and January first, next. Smith held that state supreme judge George H. Clark, Carroll, recently appointed by Gov. Davis, to fill the unexpired term of former Judge James G. Johnson, Springfield, who resigned before his unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor, can only hold the office until Ohio voters elect Johnson's successor.

Turks Clamor for Immediate Occupation of Thrace—British Admiral Ordered to Send Ultimatum to Kemal to Evacuate

Constantinople, Sept. 26.—An unconfirmed report was received here today that shots had been exchanged between British and Turkish artillery.

The Turks continued to move heavy Krupp and Skoda guns up towards the front.

So far the British have made no sign that they will grant the request of Hamid Bey, Constantinople representative of the Angora government, that they will discontinue the massing or reinforcements along the Dardanelles. The Turks are still clamoring for the immediate occupation of Thrace.

Greece is opposed to Turkish occupation of Thrace and the allied high commissioner have been informed that the Athens government fears a revolution if the Turks cross into Europe before the peace conference. The city is fairly calm but propaganda pamphlets are being circulated urging the "murder or expulsion of the British."

The arrival of Greek warships in the Bosphorus has aroused high feeling on the part of the Turks. They contend that this is a violation of the neutral zone by Greece and that Turkey has an equal right to send troops across the Bosphorus into Thrace.

Fire which broke out in the Pera or European quarter was still burning today.

The allied authorities have ordered the civilian populations to evacuate the villages near Daridja in the neutral zone.

American ship are aiding in the removal of Christian refugees from Smyrna.

London, Sept. 26.—Admiral Brock, commander of the British fleet in the Turkish straits, today was instructed to send an ultimatum to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, warning him that the British "would take steps" against the Turkish nationalists unless they withdrew from the neutral zone on the Dardanelles within 48 hours.

General Pelle, French high commissioner at Constantinople, has telegraphed to Mustapha Kemal Pasha demanding withdrawal of Turkish cavalry from the allied neutral zone at once.

Turkish cavalry that withdrew from the neutral zone at the western end of the Dardanelles was reported to have recrossed the line Monday, recrossing Kum Kale at the Junction of the Dardanelles and the Aegean sea. The Turks were said to have entrenched east of Kerenkeul, reinforcing their positions with machine guns.

Athens reports that a ministerial crisis is imminent and that a strong movement is afoot to invite former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos back to Greece. He became an exile when King Constantine returned from Switzerland.

The British continue to strengthen their positions both at Constantinople and Chanak. A mobile column of British infantry, marines and cavalry has taken up position half way between Chanak and Erekeul.

A Moscow dispatch said that Russia had sent a note to Bulgaria, Roumania, Jugoslavians, Egypt, Italy France and Great Britain demanding a near east peace conference on the basis of "Turkish sovereignty and the rights of Black Sea states."

FAIR PRICE ON COAL EXPECTED TO BE FIXED

Ohio State Fuel Director
Confers in Washington
With Officials

Columbus, Sept. 26.—While state fuel administrator Neal, Attorney General Price and Frank H. Baer, Administrator Neal's transportation director, are in Washington, D. C., today, conferring with Federal Fuel Distributor Spens, data to be used in determining upon tentative fair prices for coal is being collected here by H. A. Cornelius, Cleveland, and F. S. Riggs, New York, accountants.

It is expected that the fair prices will be announced in a few days.

The conferences at Washington, it was said, will deal with priority, transportation, car supply embargoes, demurrage and the amount of Ohio coal to be shipped into the northwest.

Neal wants the federal requirement that sixty per cent of Ohio mined coal go to the northwest reduced. He also will urge distributor Spens to assign a federal field agent to Administrator Neal's office for the purpose of insuring the closest possible cooperation between the two governmental agencies.

LEGION ENDORSES VETO OF BONUS

Cincinnati, Sept. 26.—A resolution expressing unqualified approval of President Harding's action in vetoing the soldier bonus bill was adopted here last night at a meeting of the F. W. Galbraith post of the American Legion. The action came as a distinct surprise because the legion as a national organization practically dictated the ill-fated bill for adjusted compensation which was doomed by the president's signature.

Two hours of discussion preceded the adoption of the resolution, but there was little opposition. Galbraith Post is composed exclusively of men who served in France under the late Colonel F. W. Galbraith, who was killed in an automobile accident at Indianapolis in 1921 when he was national commander of the American Legion.

PHYSICIANS ARE PUZZLED BY STRANGE MALADY

Cincinnati, Sept. 26.—Vaccinated two weeks ago, Wilbert Hagenseiker, six, of Covington, romped home Friday afternoon when his school was out and complained to his mother that he was sleepy. He curled up on the davenport and today physicians who have tried in vain to awaken him, admitted that they were stumped by his case.

Dr. P. L. Carlton, the family physician, said at first that he thought the lad's drowsiness resulted from the vaccination, but when he failed to arouse the sleeper throughout Saturday, Sunday and Monday, he admitted that the case had him puzzled. Other doctors whom he called found themselves in the same straits. They said the boy's condition was not serious and that they may be able to determine what is wrong with him in four or five days.

Beekman, prosecuting attorney of Somerset county.

Conflicting statements as to the number of bullet wounds in Mrs. Mills body offered one reason for the plan to exhumate the corpse. Dr. W. Z. Long, coroner's physician of Somerset county, claims that only one bullet entered the body. Other physicians have said they found three or four.

Mr. Weyer and another member of the airplane party escaped unhurt, but two others on the machine were injured. All were taken into the princess' castle where they were treated as guests. It was the first time a newspaper correspondent had entered the home of the woman who is to be the future wife of the one time German warlord. Interesting revelations were made concerning the lifelong friendship of the princess and her betrothed—the former emperor.

Castle Saabor, Silesia, Sunday, via Berlin, Sept. 26.—This is being written in the library of the princess Hermine von Reuss-Schoenach-Carolath, the bride to be of the ex-kaiser of Germany. On a couch lies Captain Ludwig Hassenpflug, former German staff officer, nursing a wrenched hip and bad contusions. Beside him kneels Toms Raab, famous German war "ace."

Now and then the door opens and the princess softly enters with whispered inquiries as to how the patient is getting on.

In a freshly ploughed field, a few yards from the castle, lies the wreckage of airplane D-82, which, after circling the castle, suddenly turned turtle.

At the home of the castle's chief forester lies Captain Wilhelm Strunk, former Austrian army officer, airman and soldier of fortune. Captain Strunk, who had been captured by the Russians in the Siberian prison camp to the Chinese frontier and twice was released and taken back. He succeeded in escaping the third time. Later he served as an aviator on the Plave river front. After the war he served as pilot of the airplane which carried Enver Pasha, the famous Turkish soldier of fortune to freedom.

He had been seized in Kovno while on his way from Germany to Moscow. Strunk once had fought with the British army in India.

Captain Strunk was the more seriously injured of the two. He suffered from a bad contusion of the brain.

It is now growing late in the afternoon and the princess has just entered the room.

Must Remain Overnight.
"I insist," said she, "that you shall all remain here overnight. I have just had a wing of the castle fixed up"

TO WRITE NAMES ON JUDICIAL BALLOTS

Columbus, Sept. 26.—Secretary of State Smith today ordered that space be left on the November judicial ballots where voters can write in the names of candidates for state supreme judge for the short term of less than two months—November and January first, next. Smith held that state supreme judge George H. Clark, Carleton, recently appointed by Gov. Davis, to fill the unexpired term of former Judge James G. Johnson, Springfield, who resigned before his unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor, can only hold the office until Ohio voters elect Johnson's successor.

Turks Clamor for Immediate Occupation of Thrae—British Admiral Ordered to Send Ultimatum to Kemal to Evacuate

Constantinople, Sept. 26.—An unconfirmed report was received here today that shots had been exchanged between British and Turkish artillery.

The Turks continued to move heavy Krupp and Skoda guns up towards the front.

So far the British have made no sign that they will grant the request of Hamid Bey, Constantinople representative of the Angora government, that they will discontinue the massing of reinforcements along the Dardanelles. The Turks are still clamoring for the immediate occupation of Thrae.

Greece is opposed to Turkish occupation of Thrae and the allied high commissioner have been informed that the Athens government fears a revolution if the Turks cross into Europe before the peace conference.

The city is fairly calm but propaganda pamphlets are being circulated urging the "murder or expulsion of the British."

The arrival of Greek warships in the Bosphorus has aroused high feeling on the part of the Turks. They contend that this is a violation of the neutral zone by Greece and that Turkey has an equal right to send troops across the Bosphorus into Thrae.

Fire which broke out in the Pera or European quarter was still burning today.

The allied authorities have ordered the civilian populations to evacuate the villages near Dardajla in the neutral zone.

American ship are aiding in the removal of Christian refugees from Smyrna.

London, Sept. 26.—Admiral Brock, commander of the British fleet in the Turkish straits, today was instructed to send an ultimatum to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, warning him that the British "would take steps" against the Turkish nationalists unless they withdrew from the neutral zone on the Dardanelles within 48 hours.

General Pelle, French high commissioner at Constantinople, has telegraphed to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, demanding withdrawal of Turkish cavalry from the allied neutral zone at once.

Turkish cavalry that withdrew from the neutral zone at the western end of the Dardanelles was reported to have recrossed the line Monday, recrossing Kum Kale at the Junction of the Dardanelles and the Aegean sea. The Turks were said to have entrenched east of Kerenkeul, reinforcing their positions with machine guns.

Athens reports that a ministerial crisis is imminent and that a strong movement is afoot to invite former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos back to Greece. He became an exile when King Constantine returned from Switzerland.

The British continue to strengthen their positions both at Constantinople and Chanak. A mobile column of British infantry, marines and cavalry has taken up position half way between Chanak and Erenkeul.

A Moscow dispatch said that Russia had sent a note to Bulgaria, Roumania, Juko Slavia, Egypt, Italy France and Great Britain demanding a near east peace conference on the basis of "Turkish sovereignty and the rights of Black Sea states."

MAY EXHUME BODY IN ATTEMPT TO SOLVE MYSTERY

New Brunswick, N. J. Sept. 26.—The body of Mrs. Eleanor Mills who was shot to death while keeping a supposed love tryst with Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, will be exhumed and examined for evidence as may throw new light on the tragedy. It was strongly intimated today by A. M. Beekman, prosecuting attorney of Somerset county.

Conflicting statements as to the number of bullet wounds in Mrs. Mills body offered one reason for the plan to exhume the corpse. Dr. W. T. Long, coroner's physician of Somerset County, claims that only one bullet entered the body. Other physicians have said they found three or four.

GOMPERS IN CINCINNATI FUTHERING POLITICAL PLANS

Cincinnati, Sept. 26.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor spent several hours in Cincinnati yesterday furthering plans of his organization for an active participation in politics during the coming campaign. John Fitzpatrick, chairman of the Chicago federation of labor, and John B. Frey, vice president of the Moulders union and editor of the official union journal which is published here, were closeted with Mr. Gompers "talking over the situation." The veteran labor leader left last evening for Chattanooga, Tenn., where he will address the annual convention of printing pressmen today.

PHYSICIANS ARE PUZZLED BY STRANGE MALADY

Cincinnati, Sept. 26.—Vaccinated two weeks ago, Wilbert Hagensecker, six, of Covington, romped home Friday afternoon when his school was out and complained to his mother that he was sleepy. He curled up on the davenport and today physicians who have tried in vain to awaken him, admitted that they were stumped by his case.

Dr. P. L. Carlon, the family physician, said at first that he thought the lad's drowsiness resulted from the vaccination, but when he failed to arouse the sleeper throughout Saturday, Sunday and Monday, he admitted that the case had him puzzled.

Other doctors whom he called found themselves in the same straits. They said the boy's condition was not serious and that they may be able to determine what is wrong with him in four or five days.

QUESTION OF FULL TIME HEALTH OFFICER FOR XENIA AGITATED AT MEETING OF CITIZENS MONDAY; APPOINT COMMITTEE

Dr. R. H. Grube, city and county joint health commissioner, and the entire health system in the county, were under fire by members of the citizens' committee composed of representatives of various civic organizations appointed during the recent typhoid fever epidemic when they met in the commission chamber of City Hall last night to hear the report of the special committee of physicians named to assist the health department during the term of the disease.

As a result of sentiment arising and expressed without qualification at the meeting, a committee of five members of the larger committee was appointed by Dr. R. Kent Finley, chairman to wait upon the City and County Commissions in order to learn the possibilities of enlarging the health budget and increasing the finances to an amount necessary to employ a full-time health officer, and provide adequate health protection, against the repetition of epidemics.

The committee as appointed by Dr. Finley is composed of Dr. Rayburn R. McClellan, the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. S. M. McKay and Mrs. James Wilson 3rd. The committee will aim to bring about an increase in the size of the city and county health budget so that money can be provided for a system similar to that in Shelby county, which, although no larger than Greene County, employs a full-time health officer.

Report Is Read.

The meeting was opened when Dr. Finley read the report of the citizens' committee of physicians, consisting of himself, Dr. B. R. McClellan and Dr. H. C. Messenger, appointed by the larger committee, July 18, during the midst of the epidemic. According to the report these physicians immediately recommended as preventives and precautionary measures: that the city water be chlorinated; that all milk be pasteurized and placed in sterile capped bottles; that no milk be distributed in open containers; that no distributor with typhoid in his family be permitted to sell milk; that there be an inspection of dairies and distributing plants with weekly bacteriological counts of milk; organization of sanitary squads to disinfect vaults and dumps and eliminate the breeding places of flies; frequent bacteria examination of water and the establishment of free vaccination clinics. These recommendations were adopted by Dr. Grube, the report said.

At the request of the committee, the report shows, Dr. F. G. Boudreau, state epidemiologist, came here and made substantially the same recommendations with the exception that he did not deem the chlorination of water necessary but stressed the necessity of investigating all industrial cross connections and urged careful dairy and milk inspection. At that time Dr. H. A. Hoffman, was appointed dairy inspector by City Manager S. O. Hale, to serve during the emergency. The report concludes as follows: "In the light of Dr. Hoffman's investigations your committee wishes to respectfully submit the following recommendations:

Make Recommendations.

1—Thorough dairy and food inspection—and this should include:

(a) Inspection of all dairies once a month.

(b) Inspection of milk distributing plants once a week and samples taken for examination; such examination should include a bacterial count and estimation of butter fat.

We feel that this should be made public through the press, as it should be considered a matter of public interest.

2—Examination of the water once a week, routinely as a precautionary measure.

3—An ordinance governing the milk supply which would put into effect the requirements of the state dairy department.

4—At the soonest possible time a full-time Health Officer should be appointed and inspection be carried to restaurants, slaughter houses and all places where food is handled.

"Your committee realizes that to put these measures in operation would require a considerable expenditure of money, but we are sure that the result in saving life and conserving the health of the community would more than justify the expenditure."

An added recommendation to the report provides "that the public should be fully informed about current health conditions and that any flagrant violations of public health laws should be immediately and fully exposed."

Tells Milk Situation.

Dr. Hoffman, veterinarian, investigated all milk distributing plants and as many dairy herds as possible during the period he was serving as an emergency officer. His report, which went into detail regarding his work, disclosed facts bearing upon the milk situation. The report showed, compare favorably with barns on average farms, and only six were equipped for handling dairy herds properly. Fifty per cent had solid floors, and the rest dirt, although the state regulations do not permit dirt floors. Many of the barns are dirty, with cobwebs on the walls and ceilings and dust on the floors. About six of the total had been kept clean and in three of four the floors were scrubbed with water, the report says. Twenty per cent are white-washed, 15 per cent are properly lighted and only a few properly ventilated, many having no provisions for light or ventilation.

"One of the greatest sources of contamination for milk during the coming months is the mud and manure in the feed lots and exercising pens," the report says. "In many of the lots examined, the mud and refuse are two to three feet deep, allowing an accumulation of these materials on the extremities and udders of the cows. Unless more care than is apparent is exercised large quantities of this refuse will undoubtedly find its way into the milk."

"Water of unknown origin," used in washing milk utensils is another possible source of typhoid or other intestinal disorders, the report shows. Seventy per cent of these cases examined show that the milk is strained behind the cows, with no separate provision for handling, and in many cases chickens and animals are kept in the same compartment, in violation of strict state laws. Proper cooling is obtained in but few places, says the report.

Not Favorably Placed

Many distributing plants are not favorably located to provide the best sanitary conditions, said the veterinarian's report, which goes on to say that some of these plants are not properly lighted, ventilated or cleaned, with no provisions for eliminating flies, dust, or dirt. Drain water is not properly carried off in some cases. All are deficient in the matter of equipment, although all have pasteurizers now, and all, except one, have coolers. None of the distributors are equipped for sterilizing bottles, and the majority have no plant for filling bottles except by hand, pressing the caps on with the thumb. Improper refrigeration is responsible for some high bacterial counts the report shows. Bacterial counts of a number of samples taken during August, show that, the tests vary with different distributors and different conditions of the milk indicating in some cases poor organization and equipment, in other's poor refrigeration and unsanitary condition of the bottles the report declares. The following recommendations are included in the report:

1—Enforce the present State Sanitary Regulations supplemented by the various regulations of Xenia.

2—Inspect all establishments producing or selling milk at regular intervals and often enough to enforce the regulations.

3—Require all persons desiring to sell milk, whether producer or distributor to secure a permit from the health department which permit shall be issued only after an inspection has been made.

4—Require all milk sold to be pasteurized unless the cows producing same are tested for tuberculosis at least twice a year.

5—Require all distributors to submit proposed changes in their establishment to the health department for approval.

6—Make periodical bacteriological tests on all milk sold setting a maximum standard for all grades in milk.

No Money Available.

Dr. Grube, City Health Commissioner, told the gathering he was in accord with the move to get better milk and the necessity of a dairy and milk inspector, but said there was no money available for that work. Such a work, said Dr. Grube requires a veterinarian or someone skilled in that line, and is not the work of the Health Commissioner. He said he would welcome such an assistant but that the appointment was a question of finances, which is up to the city.

Mrs. F. L. Smith asked what such work would cost, and Dr. Grube said

Antioch College had offered the county dairy and milk inspection, including bacteriological counts for $2,500 a year. Dr. Finley agreed that a veterinarian and bacteriologist is required for the work and that engaging of such a man would cost money. Mrs. D. W. Cherry, asked the chair if the health commissioner isn't supposed to enforce the State Sanitary laws.

Dr. Hoffman told the gathering that the State Department has a score card system for checking dairies, which requires regular inspection and must be enforced. About 150 people are supplying milk to Xenia, through six or seven distributors, he said. He also asserted that there is no single producer or distributor, from the country or city, antagonistic to inspection, although some took the stand that since there were no universal requirements at present that it was useless to produce high class milk and then have it mixed. Others operate through ignorance he said.

Prefers Mud To Disease.

The Rev. Mr. Tilford said he would rather walk through mud and stumble over broken curbing for which the city has been spending considerable money recently, than run the danger of diseases. If the city can find money with which to repair curbing, why can't it find the money to provide adequate health needs?" he said. He also referred to the necessity of food and meat inspection.

Dr. W. H. Finley said that as long as conditions are permitted to drift, they will do so, but that it is time the people make a stand, and let the authorities know that better health conditions are wanted. If the people act they will get those conditions, he said. Milk producers, he said, will do nothing to obtain better milk as long as consumers raise no objection. "We don't want only $400 appropriated for the health of Xenia, said Dr. Finley.

"Nobody care to contribute toward a health fund, under the present health officers," said Mrs. Smith. "The health restrictions have not been enforced and no matter what money was spent the present conditions would continue. Things are not taken care of."

Mrs. Cherry said that Dr. Grube said at a Social Service League meeting that the source of the typhoid fever epidemic had been traced to the contaminated water and that he would be willing to go to court to testify to the fact that the water pumped from the creek into the city water mains at cross connections caused the epidemic. Dr. R. Kent Finley said that was the belief of Dr. Boudreau, but that he believed those conditions had been taken care of, while the milk supply had been left unguarded.

Passed Emergency Measure.

"Isn't the County Health Commissioner supposed to inspect farms and dairies?" inquired Mrs. Cherry. Dr. Grube responded that the county board may provide a dairy inspector. C. S. Frazer, former city commissioner, asked Dr. Grube if he didn't have the authority to set a standard for milk sanitation, to which the Health Commissioner replied in the affirmative. "Then why don't you do it?" said Fr. Frazer. "Two years ago," he continued, "when you wanted to know if the city commission would stand back of you in an attempt to clean up certain conditions, the commission voted its support unanimously. But I don't think you ever turned a wheel," said the former commissioner. "I didn't have any ordinance," said Dr. Grube. J. T. Charters, former president of the commission, asserted here that such an ordinance had been passed at the time as an emergency measure.

Miss Helen Evers, Red Cross Public Health Nurse, said bottles used in families where typhoid fever was prevalent, were returned to the dairy, men without being sterilized. "Everyone is dissatisfied with the way our health situation is handled," said Mrs. S. M. McKay. She suggested a full-time commissioner, with milk inspection and other provisions. "We have to push everything that's done," she said. Dr. Finley said a full time officer would be a costly measure, as the city only pays Dr. Grube $500 annually. He suggested the salary would be between $4,000 and $5,000. H. A. Higgins, said a good man could be obtained to do the work for considerably less than that.

Explain Antioch Offer.

Dr. Finley and Dr. Hoffman explained the Antioch College offer in the suggestion of Miss Anna McCracken, by which Antioch, through Dr. Hoffman, member of the faculty, agreed to clean up the milk situation here, inspect dairies and herds, and provide bacteriological counts, for $2,500 annually. Mrs. J. Walker Gibney asked what disposition would be made of the "rest of the fifth." Mrs. Smith referred to flies allowed to settle on meat in butcher shops and Miss Louise Shaffer, secretary of the Red Cross, said vault refuse had been dumped in an open field in the heat of the summer, without being covered up. It was then that Mrs. James Wilson 3rd moved the appointment of the committee and it was seconded by Mrs. McKay.

Dr. B. R. McClellan explained that in Sidney, a fulltime health commissioner is employed, and an adequate health system maintained. F. L. Smith ventured the suggestion that Greene County is spending $2,000 for health and is getting nothing in return. His statement, put in the form of a question went unanswered. He suggested that the Health Commissioner should not "split hairs" on whether the work was for the county or the city. Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass wanted to know who makes out the health budget, and Dr. Grube explained that the City Commission asks for as much as it thinks it will need, which amount is approved or "pruned" by the county budget commission, according to the state law, which now permits a levy of .03 of a mill for health, netting the city about $400 a year to carry on health work. "How much work can a man with an expensive education be expected to give for $10 a week," said Dr. Grube. Mrs. Cherry said that the county and city would have to be considered together, but Dr. Grube maintained that they operate separately in the matter of health. Miss Evers said no matter what the cost of adequate health protection was, it would be small compared with the lives endangered. She said that although Dr. Grube said there were no recent cases of typhoid fever, that her department handled one case recently, the patient being taken to a Dayton hospital, because there is no public hospital here. Dr. Finley said then that such cases are not alarming, and that contact cases may continue until Christmas.

A letter from Dr. Boudreau, state epidemiologist, received by Earl E. Boxwell, in answer to a letter written by the latter, was read by Dr. Finley. Mr. Boxwell had two sons with typhoid fever. The letter said practically the same that Dr. Boudreau stated in his visit here, pointing out that the possibility of another epidemic still exists.

QUESTION OF FULL TIME HEALTH OFFICER FOR XENIA AGITATED AT MEETING OF CITIZENS MONDAY; APPOINT COMMITTEE

Dr. R. H. Grube, city and county joint health commissioner, and the entire health system in the county, were under fire by members of the citizens' committee composed of representatives of various civic organizations appointed during the recent typhoid fever epidemic when they met in the commission chamber of City Hall last night to hear the report of the special committee of physicians named to assist the health department during the term of the disease.

As a result of sentiment arising and expressed without qualification at the meeting, a committee of five members of the larger committee was appointed by Dr. R. Kent Finley, chairman to wait upon the City and County Commissions in order to learn the possibilities of enlarging the health budget and increasing the finances to an amount necessary to employ a full-time health officer, and provide adequate health protection, against the repetition of epidemics.

The committee as appointed by Dr. Finley is composed of Dr. Rayburn R. McClellan, the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. S. M. McKay and Mrs. James Wilson 3rd. The committee will aim to bring about an increase in the size of the city and county health budget so that money can be provided for a system similar to that in Shelby county, which, although no larger than Greene County, employs a full-time health officer.

Report Is Read.

The meeting was opened when Dr. Finley read the report of the citizens' committee of physicians, consisting of himself, Dr. B. R. McClellan and Dr. H. C. Messenger, appointed by the larger committee, July 18, during the midst of the epidemic. According to the report these physicians immediately recommended as preventive and precautionary measures; that the city water be chlorinated; that all milk be pasteurized and placed in sterile capped bottles; that no milk be distributed in open containers; that no distributor with typhoid in his family be permitted to sell milk; that there be an inspection of dairies and distributing plants with weekly bacteriological counts of milk; organization of sanitary squads to disinfect vaults and dumps and eliminate the breeding places of flies; frequent bacteria examination of water and the establishment of free vaccination clinics. These recommendations were adopted by Dr. Grube, the report said.

At the request of the committee, the report shows Dr. F. G. Boudreau, state epidemiologist, came here and made substantially the same recommendations with the exception that he did not deem the chlorination of water necessary but stressed the necessity of investigating all industrial cross connections and urged careful dairy and milk inspection. At that time Dr. H. A. Hoffman, was appointed dairy inspector by City Manager S. O. Hale, to serve during the emergency. The report concludes as follows: "In the light of Dr. Hoffman's investigations your committee wishes to respectfully submit the following recommendations:

Make Recommendation.

1—Thorough dairy and food inspection—and this should include: (a) Inspection of all dairies once a month. (b) Inspection of milk distributing plants once a week and samples taken for examination; such examination should include a bacterial count and estimation of butter fat. We feel that this should be made public through the press, as it should be considered a matter of public interest.

2—Examination of the water once a week, routinely as a precautionary measure.

3—An ordinance governing the milk supply which would put into effect the requirements of the state dairy department.

4—At the soonest possible time a full time Health Officer should be appointed and inspection be carried to restaurants, slaughter houses and all places where food is handled.

"Your committee realizes that to put these measures in operation would require a considerable expenditure of money, but we are sure that the result in saving life and conserving the health of the community would more than justify the expenditure."

An added recommendation to the report provides "that the public should be fully informed about current health conditions and that any flagrant violations of public health laws should be immediately and fully exposed."

Tells Milk Situation.

Dr. Hoffman, veterinarian, investigated all milk distributing plants and as many dairy herds as possible during the period he was serving as an emergency officer. His report which went into detail regarding his work, disclosed facts bearing upon the milk situation. The barns, the report showed, compare favorably with barns on average farms, and only six were equipped for handling dairy herds properly. Fifty per cent had solid floors, and the rest dirt, although the state regulations do not permit dirt floors. Many of the barns are dirty, with cobwebs on the walls and ceilings and dust on the floors. About six of the total had been kept clean and in three or four the floors were scrubbed with water, the report says. Twenty per cent are white-washed, 15 per cent are properly lighted and only a few properly ventilated, many having no provisions for light or ventilation.

"One of the greatest sources of contamination for milk during the coming months is the mud and manure in the feed lots and exercising pens," the report says. "In many of the lots examined, the mud and refuse are two to three feet deep, allowing an accumulation of these materials on the extremities and udders of the cows. Unless more care than is apparent is exercised large quantities of this refuse will undoubtedly find its way into the milk."

"Water of unknown origin," used in washing milk utensils is another possible source of typhoid or other intestinal disorders, the report shows. Seventy per cent of these cases examined show that the milk is strained behind the cows, with no separate provision for handling, and in many cases chickens and animals are kept in the same compartment, in violation of strict state laws. Proper cooling is obtained in but few places, says the report.

Not Favorably Located

Many distributing plants are not favorably located to provide the best sanitary conditions, said the veterinarian's report which goes on to say that some of these plants are not properly lighted, ventilated or cleaned, with no provisions for eliminating flies, dust, or dirt. Drain water is not properly carried off in some cases. All are deficient in the matter of equipment, although all have pasteurizers now, and all, except one, have coolers. None of the distributors are equipped for sterilizing bottles, and the majority have no plant for filling bottles except by hand, pressing the caps on with the thumb. Improper refrigeration is responsible for some high bacterial counts the report shows. Bacterial counts of a number of samples taken during August, show that the tests vary with different distributors and different conditions of the milk indicating in some cases poor organization and equipment, in others poor refrigeration and unsanitary condition of the bottles the report declares. The following recommendations are included in the report:

1—Enforce the present State Sanitary Regulations supplemented by the various regulations of Xenia. 2—Inspect all establishments producing or selling milk at regular intervals and often enough to enforce the regulations. 3—Require all persons desiring to sell milk, whether producer or distributor to secure a permit from the health department which permit shall be issued only after an inspection has been made. 4—Require all milk sold to be pasteurized unless the cows producing same are tested for tuberculosis at least twice a year. 5—Require all distributors to submit proposed changes in their establishment to the health department for approval. 6—Make periodic bacteriological tests on all milk sold setting a maximum standard for all grades in milk.

No Money Available.

Dr. Grube, City Health Commissioner, told the gathering he was in accord with the move to get better milk and the necessity of a dairy and milk inspector, but said there was no money available for that work. Such a work, said Dr. Grube requires a veterinarian or someone skilled in that line, and is not the work of the Health Commissioner. He said he would welcome such an assistant but that the appointment was a question of finances, which is up to the city.

Mrs. F. L. Smith asked what such work would cost, and Dr. Grube said

Antioch College had offered the county dairy and milk inspection, including bacteriological counts for $2,500 a year. Dr. Finley agreed that a veterinarian and bacteriologist is required for the work and that engaging of such a man would cost money. Mrs. D. W. Cherry, asked the chair if the health commissioner isn't supposed to enforce the State Sanitary laws.

Dr. Hoffman told the gathering that the State Department has a score card system for checking dairies, which requires regular inspection and must be enforced. About 150 people are supplying milk to Xenia, through six or seven distributors, he said. He also asserted that there is no single producer or distributor, from the country or city, antagonistic to inspection, although some took the stand that since there were no universal requirements at present that it was useless to produce high class milk and then have it mixed. Others operate through ignorance he said.

Prefers Mud To Disease.

The Rev. Mr. Tilford said he would rather walk through mud and stumble over broken curbing for which the city has been spending considerable money recently, than run the danger of diseases. If the city can find money with which to repair curbing, why can't it find the money to provide adequate health needs?" he said. He also referred to the necessity of food and meat inspection.

Dr. W. H. Finley said that as long as conditions are permitted to drift, they will do so, but that it is time the people make a stand, and let the authorities know that better health conditions are wanted. If the people act they will get those conditions, he said. Milk producers, he said, will do nothing to obtain better milk as long as consumers raise no objection. "We don't want only $400 appropriated for the health of Xenia," said Dr. Finley.

"Nobody care to contribute toward a health fund, under the present health officers," said Mrs. Smith. "The health restrictions have not been enforced and no matter what money was spent the present conditions would continue. Things are not taken care of."

Mrs. Cherry said that Dr. Grube said at a Social Service League meeting that the source of the typhoid fever epidemic had been traced to the contaminated water and that he would be willing to go to court to testify to the fact that the water pumped from the creek into the city water mains at cross connections caused the epidemic. Dr. R. Kent Finley said that was the belief of Dr. Boudreau, but that he believed those conditions had been taken care of, while the milk supply had been left unguarded.

Passed Emergency Measure.

"Isn't the County Health Commissioner supposed to inspect farms and dairies?" inquired Mrs. Cherry. Dr. Grube responded that the county board may provide a dairy inspector. C. S. Frazer, former city commissioner, asked Dr. Grube if he didn't have the authority to set a standard for milk sanitation, to which the Health Commissioner replied in the affirmative. "Then why don't you do it?" said Fr. Frazer. "Two years ago," he continued, "when you wanted to know if the city commission would stand back of you in an attemp, to clean up certain conditions, the commission voted its support unanimously. But I don't think you ever turned a wheel," said the former commissioner. "I didn't have any ordinance," said Dr. Grube. J. T. Charters, former president of the commission, asserted here that such an ordinance had been passed at the time as an emergency measure.

Miss Helen Evers, Red Cross Public Health Nurse, said bottles used in families where typhoid fever was prevalent, were returned to the dairy, men without being sterilized. "Every one is dissatisfied with the way our health situation is handled," said Mrs. S. M. McKay. She suggested a full-time commissioner, with milk inspection and other provisions. "We have to push everything that's done," she said. Dr. Finley said a full time officer would be a costly measure, as the city only pays Dr. Grube $500 annually. He suggested the salary would be between $4,000 and $5,000. H. A. Higgins said a good man could be obtained to do the work for considerably less than that.

Explain Antioch Offer.

Dr. Finley and Dr. Hoffman explained the Antioch College offer at the suggestion of Miss Anna McCracken, by which Antioch, through Dr. Hoffman, member of the faculty, agreed to clean up the milk situation here, inspect dairies and herds, and provide bacteriological counts, for $2,500 annually. Mrs. J. Walker Gibney asked what disposition would be made of the "rest of the fifth." Mrs. Smith referred to flies, allowed to settle on meat in butcher shops and Miss Louise Shaffer, secretary of the Red Cross, said vault refuse had been dumped in an open field in the heat of the summer, without being covered up. It was then that Mrs. James Wilson 3rd moved the appointment of the committee and it was seconded by Mrs. McKay.

Dr. B. R. McClellan explained that in Sidney, a fulltime health commissioner is employed, and an adequate health system maintained. F. L. Smith ventured the suggestion that Greene County is spending $2,000 for health and is getting nothing in return. His statement, put in the form of a question went unanswered. He suggested that the Health Commissioner should not "split hairs" on whether the work was for the county or the city. Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass wanted to know who makes out the health budget, and Dr. Grube explained that the City Commission asks for as much as it thinks it will need, which amount is approved of "pruned" by the county budget commission, according to the state law, which now permits a levy of .03 of a mill for health, netting the city about $400 a year to carry on health work. "ow much work can a man with an expensive education be expected to give for $10 a week," said Dr. Grube. Mrs. Cherry said that the county and city would have to be considered together, but Dr. Grube maintained that they operate separately in the matter of health. Miss Evers said no matter what the cost of adequate health protection was, it would be small compared with the lives endangered. She said that although Dr. Grube said there were no recent cases of typhoid fever, that her department handled one case recently, the patient being taken to a Dayton hospital, because there is no public hospital here. Dr. Finley said then that such cases are not alarming, and that contact cases may continue until Christmas.

A letter from Dr. Boudreau, state epidemiologist, received by Earl E. Boxwell, in answer to a letter written by the latter, was read by Dr. Finley. Mr. Boxwell had two sons with typhoid fever. The letter said practically the same that Dr. Boudreau stated in his visit here, pointing out that the possibility of another epidemic still exists.

CHARLEY CUNNINGHAM

CROWDS THROG M'KINLEY AUDITORIUM ON OPENING OF GAZETTE AND REPUBLICAN COOKING SCHOOL TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Women from bobbed hair flappers to silver-haired matrons, packed the auditorium of McKinley Junior High School Tuesday afternoon between 2:15 and four o'clock at the first session of the cooking school being conducted under the auspices of The Gazette and The Republican.

The women came in ones and twos and parties, and crowds and parties, until every available seat in the inadequately sized auditorium had been taken and standing room was at a premium. The size of the opening crowd indicates that women of Xenia and Greene County are anxious to take advantage of the expert culinary advice being offered in Xenia's first free cooking school.

The women crowded every available bit of space in the auditorium and all seemed deeply interested in the subject in hand. Evidently it is going to be a real school and not merely a place of entertainment.

This expert instruction and advice is being given by M. S. Leslie, manager and lecturer; Dr. R. B. Shives, food expert and culinary lecturer and Miss Rose L. Weisenman, demonstrator and culinary lecturer. Not to miss a word of the interesting and instructive talks of these teachers, the women brought pads and pencils with them and took ample notes of the advice given, that will be of future value in their daily housework.

Of particular interest to the audience was the instruction given regarding time-saving and step-saving work in the kitchen, and the more efficient planning of work, that will enable the housewife to find time for other things. The experts actually prepare the dishes as they explain them and give their ingredients, so that the audience is given practical demonstrations. Samples drew the applause of the crowd, when distributed. During the intermissions, a Brunswick phonograph furnishes the program Tuesday afternoon was devoted to what is known as "Deep Frying." Dr. Shives demonstrated the proper way of frying.

Wednesday will be pastry day when practical helps on pie crust and other pastry will be given. The program Wednesday is as follows:

The recipes given by the domestic science lecturers at the school Tuesday afternoon, the first day of the school were:

Breaded Meats.

Select chops and season with salt and pepper. Dredge in bread crumbs, and put into four beaten eggs. Then back into another dredge of bread crumbs, and fry in pan of deep frying fat. In using Mazola, you will make this more wholesome. Caution—The meat must be perfectly dry to start with as this is the secret of the breaded crust on the meat. This applies to all meat, fish and oyster of this nature.

A splendid way to prepare sweet breads was given by Dr. Shives Tuesday. In purchasing them he said one should always buy the heart instead of the throat sweat breads, which, even though more expensive, prove to be better and cheaper in the long run. The first important step is to clean them well and to put them in acidulated water which is made in putting a tablespoon of lemon juice and a teaspoon of salt into a quart of water. He then wrapped a thin slice of bacon around them, breaded them and fried them in deep fat.

Sweet Breads.

Dr. Shives said that there are three important things for one to remember when making doughnuts successfully. They are: do not put too much shortening in them, not too much sugar as both of these ingredients make them (Dressing for One Can of Peas.) One tablespoon of Mazola; two table spoons flour; one cup of milk one-fourth teaspoon of salt, dash of pepper. Mix flour salt and pepper and add Mazola and milk. Cook over slow fire five minutes or fifteen minutes in a double boiler.

Sift all dry ingredients together, add three-fourths cup seeded raisins dredge well, add one-half cup sweet milk, two egg yolks, two table spoons Mazola. Beat the egg whites firm, and fold in batter. Fry in deep Mazola. Serve with orange lable Karo.

Two-Minute Mayonnaise Dressing.

One cup Mazola, one egg yolk, one half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon Paprika, three table spoons lemon juice or vinegar, add one tea spoon Mazola at a time until mixture thickens, after which the Mazola may be added more rapidly. ELECTIONS BOARD WRITES SMITH FOR FINAL DECISION

Because Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith has not yet rendered a definite and final opinion as to whether there should be short term candidates for County Treasurer, the Greene County Board of Elections Monday instructed Clerk Carl Ervin to write to Judge Smith for an opinion.

The action of the board was prompted by the indefinite situation in which the case has been left and the fact that the board must know whether to have the name of the short-term candidates, Elbert L. Babb and Mrs. Carrie L. Faulkner printed on the ballots for the regular election, for which the printing contracts must be let soon.

The discussion developed when after both Mrs. Faulkner and Babb had filed their declarations of candidacy as independents the Secretary of State wrote an unofficial letter to the board in which he said in his opinion there should be no short term candidates. The same day the letter was received he admitted in a telephone conversation with The Gazette and The Republican that he thought this opinion wrong and that he would have to reverse it. This he has not yet done. In a telephone call to the Secretary of State's office from these newspapers Tuesday it developed that Judge Smith was not in Columbus and his assistant knew nothing of the situation here.

Supporters of the belief that it will be necessary to elect a short-term candidate, take encouragement in the decision of the Secretary of State in his ruling Tuesday that there will have to be a candidate elected for the short term for the supreme court bench succeeding Judge George E. Clark, whose appointment to fill the unexpired term of Judge James G. Johnson, he held, cannot continue after the time for the regular election.

CROWDS THROG M'KINLEY AUDITORIUM ON OPENING OF GAZETTE AND REPUBLICAN COOKING SCHOOL TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Women from bobbed hair flappers to silver-haired matrons, packed the auditorium of McKinley Junior High School Tuesday afternoon between 2:15 and four o'clock at the first session of the cooking school being conducted under the auspices of The Gazette and The Republican.

The women came in ones and twos and beves, and crowds and parties, until every available seat in the inadequately sized auditorium had been taken and standing room was at a premium. The size of the opening crowd indicates that women of Xenia and Greene County are anxious to take advantage of the expert culinary advice being offered in Xenia's first free cooking school.

The women crowded every available bit of space in the auditorium and all seemed deeply interested in the subject in hand. Evidently it is going to be a real school and not merely a place of entertainment.

This expert instruction and advice is being given by M. S. Leslie, manager and lecturer; Dr. R. B. Shives, food expert and culinary lecturer and Miss Rose L. Weisenman, demonstrator and culinary lecturer. Not to miss a word of the interesting and instructive talks of these teachers, the women brought pads and pencils with them and took ample notes of the advice given, that will be of future value in their daily housework.

Of particular interest to the audience was the instruction given regarding time-saving and step-saving work in the kitchen, and the more efficient planning of work, that will enable the housewife to find time for other things. The experts actually prepare the dishes as they explain them and give their ingredients, so that the audience is given practical demonstrations. Samples drew the applause of the crowd, when distributed. During the intermissions, a Brunswick phonograph furnishes the program Tuesday afternoon was devoted to what is known as "Deep Frying." Dr. Shives demonstrated the proper way of frying.

MOVEMENT FOR BETTERING OF CINCINNATI'S MORALS.

In the line of morality the city of Cincinnati has stood pretty low, with the demoralizing influences of its numerous distilleries, breweries and saloons. Its vote against temperance has always been proof of this. How gratifying it is to learn, since the advent of prohibition, that the scale is turning in a marked degree. We have seen nothing lately more in proof of this than the following, and we are sure that in a short time the effect of this movement will be felt in bettered moral conditions in the Queen City of the West.

A new social service handbook of Cincinnati is just off the press. It describes in detail the 260 odd organizations and agencies engaged in some form of social service, and is a mine of useful and well-arranged information.

In addition to listing facilities for caring for the disadvantaged groups, such as the sick, the blind, the needy, dependent and delinquent children, the agencies promoting citizenship, health, recreation, and desirable standards of living are given attention. Work among young people is stressed, such organizations as Scouts and Camp Fire Girls being included. Camps for boys and girls, for young men, and for young women are listed. The parks and playgrounds are itemized as to supervision, equipment, and types of activities. The Community Centers of the public schools are described in detail, as are those groups doing work among the Negro population and those who reach outlying parts of the county. Protective groups, such as Big Sisters and Big Brothers, come in for notice.

A feature of great interest is the section devoted to the social service activities of the various churches themselves, which are listed according to denominations. The information regarding the churches was compiled by the Federation of Churches.

The handbook is having a wide circulation among laymen. It will be of definite assistance to ministers and leaders in their churches. A number of the leading churchmen of the city have endorsed it, and some of them are opening up their offices as points of distribution. It will be helpful also to professional and volunteer social workers, boards of directors, physicians, nurses, lawyers, and group leaders.

THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR.

In these days of consolidated schools one would think the controversy over the worth of the little red schoolhouse might die out. Yet only recently an educational authority repeated the assertion of modern schoolmen that one girl cannot successfully teach the three "R's" to 20 or 30 mischievous school children of all ages and grades of school progress. As usual, defenders appeared who eagerly championed the old red schoolhouse. Hadn't it produced most of the nation's greatest men and women? Didn't its products rank as well, proportionately, as the products of the elaborate metropolitan educational systems?

There really is a good deal to be said in favor of the little school house, but there is also the lurking suspicion that many of its noblest achievements have come in spite of its weakness, not because of them.

The teacher of the one-room country school in so far as she is free of the red tape and systematized efficiency of the machine-like city school, probably has a great advantage over her fellow teachers of the large communities. If, in the first place, she has the same fine training and is given her appointment because of genuine qualifications of temperament, ability, character and love of the work, her little schoolhouse will be hard to beat.

And it is equally true that the teacher in the city school, with all her up to date equipment, fine building and the backing of a highly organized school system, will do little for her pupils if she lacks the fundamental qualities of a good teacher. It really isn't the number of rooms to building, nor the number of teachers, that makes the school a place of education.

WOMEN AND THEIR CITIZENSHIP.

When women were given the vote, it was inevitable that sooner or later their status as citizens should be made wholly independent of men's.

As long as the woman's civil rights are merely borrowed from her husband's, and limited by his, she is not a full citizen. It is patently unjust that an American woman should lose her citizenship automatically when she marries an alien.

This injustice is remedied by the Cable bill, now passed by both houses of Congress. The female citizen marrying an alien will no longer transfer her citizenship rights unless she formally renounces the United States government. There is an exception made when she marries an alien ineligible to American citizenship, but such marriages are so few as to be negligible.

This principle of independent citizenship for women works both ways. The new law properly provides that an alien woman does not become an American citizen automatically by her marriage to a naturalized alien, but only through her own act in obtaining naturalization. This should have a good effect in raising the value of American citizenship among the foreign-born population.

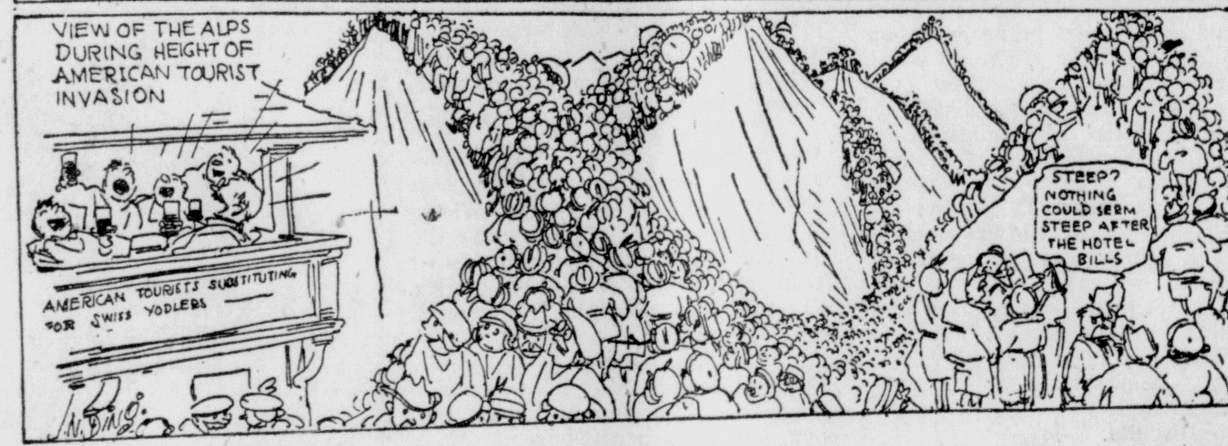

WHY CANDIDATES WIN.

Viewing the political primaries held so far around the country this season, and trying to deduce some explanation for their outcome, an innocent bystander is tempted to conclude that the voters nominate candidates for about the same reasons given, in the dear old days, for taking a drink, namely:

Because you're hot; Because you're cold; Because you're young; Because you're old; Because you're wet; Because you're dry; Or any other reason why.

If there is any common principle to be discovered underneath the varied and conflicting primary results, it appears to be this: That the public is in an independent mood and inclined to nominate and elect any candidate who reflects this spirit of independence.

THE MANNERS AND CUSTOMS OF EUROPE AS OBSERVED BY THE SUMMER TOURIST ABROAD

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

We are in receipt of a copy of the Jatisville, Texas, Messenger, giving an account of the nomination by the Republicans of Coryell County. One old friend, Col. Ike T. Cummins, was nominated for representative.

The application made some days ago by the Dayton and Xenia Transit Company for a grant to lay a double track on the Shaker-town pike was referred to County Surveyor Baird, who reported that the width of the highway is not sufficient; to allow roadway ditches, poles, etc., if the track was laid.—Dayton Herald.

Mr. Harry Smith took his departure this morning for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he will resume his studies in law at the University. Mr. Fred Kelly, who is a student at the same institution will take his departure for Ann Arbor tomorrow.

Yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Charles Darlington, on West Second Street, the members of the Catherine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution were handsomely entertained, honoring Mrs. Darlington's guest, Mrs. William Brook McCradan, of Lancaster, state vice regent.

SUNSHINE EATING
There is no accurate way by which we are able adequately to measure the powerful efficiency back of good humor, cheer and a pleasant, happy frame of mind.

But we do know that the one who emphasizes and exercises these qualities of control may be selected as a leader and a doer of deeds.

I know of no place, however, where an attitude of mind and heart count for more to the individual and to those about him than at the eating table.

Scientific men long ago discovered the effect upon digestion of the thoughts of a person. They proved that unhappy, angry thoughts changed many of the juices that mix the food in the digestive process, and caused them to act as so much poison. On the other hand, they also proved that pleasant, cheerful thinking while eating, and the dispensing of food through veins of laughter, was a most effective manner in which to "grow healthy, wealthy, and wise."

Sunshine eating, let us call it—wherein the eaters take their time and leave their table nourished in mind and heart as well as in body.

Better to eat not at all than to sit down to food in an angry or worried frame of mind.

I like the custom of rendering thanks for one's food in the first place. By it we are placed obedient to a higher power than our own. And their I like stories happy incidents, cheerful comment and bright conversation to spice my meal.

And to eat alone is almost punishment!

On such occasions, however, one may be fortified by a well filled mind and pleasant memories.

The dining room should be the most cheerful in the whole home. It should be flooded with light. And there should be many touches of beauty to smile the food of the day to its task in the body.

If I were an architect, I would specialize on outdoor eating rooms—as open as possible for the warmer months and as sunny as possible during the months of cold and snow.

For I believe in "sunshine eating" in every sense of the word.

A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota.—"I have taken your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who suffer before their babies are born."

Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Box 155, Park Rapids, Minn.

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless home is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. Why not to yours?

BUSY DAYS.

The sexton views the rows of tombs with pride, because he planned them; he says, "These little quiet rooms! All sorts of folks demand them. Few wish to sleep beneath the grass in robes that have no pouches; and yet they will step on the gas, and I prepare their couches. One sees a railway train approach, the dust and gravel tossing, and he should halt his choo-choo coach, and not attempt the crossing; but foolishly he thinks to pass, and save a half a minute, and fiercely steps upon the gas—mark yonder grave; he's in it. One would enjoy an evening jaunt, a harmless sort of revel; he takes his wife and maiden aunt to hold the rear seat level. Another auto would pass by; it honks and seems to worry; and why not let it do so—why? He's in no earthly hurry. But he's a sport, and naught shall pass, no boat can beat his Lizzie; he steps down hard upon the gas—and so they keep me busy. One journeys sadly while it rains, and sighs, 'I know I'd ought to, but how I hate to put on chains! "Take chances" is my motto. I hate to kneel in dirty grass, in mud and slime to wallow, and so I'll feed the old bus gas—he rests in yonder hollow." The sexton often sighs, "Alas! My lot is hard and dreary, but while the boys step on the gas there's no rest for the weary."

MOVEMENT FOR BETTERING OF CINCINNATI'S MORALS.

In the line of morality the city of Cincinnati has stood pretty low, with the demoralizing influences of its numerous distilleries, breweries and saloons. Its vote against temperance has always been proof of this. How gratifying it is to learn, since the advent of prohibition, that the scale is turning in a marked degree. We have seen nothing lately more in proof of this than the following, and we are sure that in a short time the effect of this movement will be felt in bettered moral conditions in the Queen City of the West.

QUAKERS DOWNED FOR INITIAL TIME

Poor punting and poor interference, especially in running back punts, cost "Chic" Harper's Wilmington College football team its first defeat at Indianapolis Saturday when Butler downed the Quakers 6-0.

The Hoosiers could do nothing with the Quaker defense, but managed to get within kicking distance of the Wilmington goal twice through poor punting by Nowald. On those two occasions, the Indians dropped two place kicks between the bars for the only counters of the game.

Harper's punts were within kicking distance of the Butler uprights once, but on that occasion they attempted a forward pass that was intercepted. The Quakers did not lose a game last season and appeared to have a much better eleven this year, but the Saturday game did not show its old time offensive.

Gout, Ulcers, and Blood Diseases, acts on the liver and kidneys. It is a body cleanser, and a nerve tonic. It seldom fails. In fact, it fails so seldom that we agree to return the purchase price to any user who is not satisfied.

The wholesome ingredients in the little capsules of Masters' Recommendation, contain nothing violent or harmful. They work gently but surely. It usually takes four or five boxes to complete the cleansing, but a great improvement is almost always felt before all of the first box has been taken. Men attach their names only to wares of which they are proud. Knowing the great capacity of Masters' Recommendation, to relieve suffering, I am proud to put my name as a stamp of approval on it.

To insure personal satisfaction Masters' Recommendation is sold directly by mail. If we didn't treat you square, Uncle Sam would soon tend to us. Send $1.00 for one box (twelve days' treatment.)

QUAKERS DOWNED FOR INITIAL TIME

Poor punting and poor interference especially in running back punts, cost "Chic" Harper's Wilmington College football team its first defeat at Indianapolis Saturday when Butler downed the Quakers 6-0.

The Hoosiers could do nothing with the Quaker defence, but managed to get within kicking distance of the Wilmington goal twice through poor punting by Nowald. On those two occasions, the Indians dropped two place kicks between the bars for the only counters of the game.

Harper's punts were within kicking distance of the Butler uprights once, but on that occasion they attempted a forward pass that was intercepted. The Quakers did not lose a game last season and appeared to have a much better eleven this year, but the Saturday game did not show its old time offensive.

FEMININE HEARTS DELIGHTED WITH DISPLAY OF KITCHEN EQUIPMENT AT COOKING SCHOOL

What a feminine heart, especially that of the October bride-to-be, will not sigh longingly for a kitchen like the model one shown at The Gazette and the Republican cooking school at the McKinley Auditorium this week? Did you see the wonderful all-white model, including handsome white kitchen cabinets, white porcelain top work tables, serviceable white ranges, and white icebox, the fundamental articles of furniture such as only a woman's love for "spick-and-spanness" could appreciate?

Some wise person once remarked that the kitchen is the keynote of the ability of the housekeeper. Of the two principals that go to make up that rule, every one knows that first and foremost comes the cleanliness of the housewife, and the second the care and effort she exercises in her preparation of food. The truth of the rule and its principals are expounded, as all of the hundreds of women of the city and the County will testify, at The Gazette and The Republican cooking school now going on.

The afore-mentioned feminine hearts may be satisfied in knowing that they may be able to urge husband, father, brother, or husband-to-be into buying a duplicate of the kitchen furniture seen at the display, at Xenia business houses, the owners of which kindly offered to display their merchandise at the cooking school, the show being one of the many outstanding points that want to make the school a decided success.

J. A. BEATTY AND SON

The three handsome white kitchen cabinets you saw were donated by the J. A. Beatty and Son Store, as were the three porcelain-top kitchen work tables seen at the display. The $80 all-white Sellers cabinet will be given away to some fortunate Xenia housewife on the final day of the school, Friday.

The time-saving devices of the three cabinets and tables are common knowledge of every housekeeper. The Sellers cabinet which is to be given away, is admired by every woman attending the school, and is the last word in up-to-date kitchen cabinets.

R. D. ADAIR COMPANY

"Quick-Meal" the trademark of one of the best in kitchen stoves, demonstrated its ability at the school, the stove being donated by the R. D. Adair store. The stove was an all white affair of a type that would add much to the appearance of any kitchen and equipped with the regulator, the device that enables the housewife who wished to go shopping while her roast is in the oven, or the new wife to visit the neighbors while the pudding is turning a delicate brown.

The attractive screens that cleverly hid the deft manipulations of the cooking artist that prepared the delicious food you sampled, were also the donations of the Adair store.

HUTCHINSON AND GIBNEY

Another stove that rivalled in the affections of the feminine patrons of the school, was the Lorain Direct action, donated by the Hutchinson and Gibney Company. This stove an equally attractive model, was made popular by the regulator, the device that wins the hearts of all Queens of the Kitchen.

THE BROWER MUSIC SHOP

"Music hath charms." Adding to the attractiveness of the entire display were the latest in records, played on a sweet-toned phonograph, donated by the Brower Music Shop. The machine bears the Brunswick trademark one of the premier in phonographs. Mr. Brower is the only Xenia agent for the Brunswick machine.

ANDERSON FLOWER SHOP

Are you to be one of the hostesses at the series of fall parties, are you among the bevy of October brides? Of course you want the most attractive decorations—see Anderson, the florist who was the master of the decorations at the school, and who furnished the palms and cut flowers that adorned the stage.

GALLOWAY AND CHERRY

Practically the most important of the articles of furniture that go to make up the completeness of the kitchen as any housewife will testify is the ice box. And most certainly the most desired of items that add to the effectiveness of the kitchen is the predominating white, in all lines of kitchen appointments. This fact was brought out at the cooking school, aided by the donation of the Galloway and Cherry store, of the large white icebox, known as The Modern.

All of this has been given, taking for granted that you with the other hundreds visited the school. If not you are missing one of the leading events in the lives of Xenia merchants and home-keepers. Visit the school and learn the latest in the culinary art and the furnishing of a modern, attractive and up-to-date kitchen.

VICTORY OPENS SOON

Piqua High School football team, which will play Coach Burger's Central High eleven here October 20, opened its season with an overwhelming victory over Woodstock by the score of 98 to 6 Saturday.

Last year the Woodstock eleven held the Piquads to a tie-score but they were woefully unmatched for the team that greeted them on the Piqua gridiron Saturday. Woodstock scored one touchdown in the second quarter on a long forward pass that saved them from a shut-out. McClain High of Greenfield defeated Frankfort High last Friday 26 to 7, using a forward passing game that the Frankfort defense could not stop. The Greenfield eleven plays here November 10.

Most Beautiful U. S. Blonde in London.

Mrs. Gerald Leigh

Mrs. Gerald Leigh, daughter of the late William Goudy of Chicago and wife of Captain Gerald Leigh of the First Life Guards, is acclaimed the most beautiful American blonde in London Society.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman thirty-two years old. I have been married to my second husband nine and a half years. I have had four little girls, three are living. My husband has never treated us right. He never turns his pay over to me, and buys me hardly any clothes. He hardly ever takes me any place and when he does he acts so hateful I never enjoy myself.

He has such an ugly disposition and is so hateful for days at a time that there is no living with him. He doesn't care what he says to hurt a person's feelings.

For the last two weeks he has been so cold toward me. When I was sick he told me he didn't care whether I lived or died. Since I married him I have found that he has a disposition like his father, and no one can live with him.

My side of the story is that I am a respectable woman; have always been true but unable to keep the work up with so many little ones, and I am not strong any more.

Please tell me what you think I ought to do. HEARTSICK.

Something is wrong with your management of the home. Probably you lack system and worry too much about little things. It takes a woman genius to pick out the essential things in housework and to keep order when she is sick and has the care of three little girls. To do your best is all that can be expected. Above all else keep your house in order and have your meals on time. The children can help in their small way by picking up after themselves.

Sometimes, and often, a marriage is not heaven-made, in which case the sooner the husband and wife learn to find happiness in their own way without depending upon each other, the better. Since you feel your husband has an impossible disposition, you will have to make the best of his faults and be thankful for all the blessings you have in your life. If you are cheerful, when your husband is pleasant, and silent when he is unreasonable, you will find your home life far more pleasant.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it proper for a boy to send a girl friend a valentine?

Yes.

VALENTINE

Dear Mr. Thompson: I am a girl eighteen years old and am in deep trouble. My father is cruel to my mother and has been ever since they have been married. There were four of us in the family. I mean four children. Two of my brothers are married and one was killed in the war.

Mother has always said she would leave father when I was old enough to take care of myself. I have a good position now and one of my brothers has asked me to come and live at his house, and the other has asked mother to live with him. We would all be in the same town and could see each other often. But now that the time has come, mother refuses to leave father. She says that in spite of his cruelty to her she loves him and wants to stay with him.

What can I do to make her see that she is wrong? I have argued with her in every way I know, but it does no good.

UNHAPPY GIRL.

Let your mother make her own decision. Since she chooses to stay with your father, you and your brothers should admire her devotion and not make her unhappy by trying to influence her against the dictates of her heart. Go to your brother if you want to, but let your mother stay with your father.

Styles BY LENORE

Generally speaking, the clothes featured this season at the various openings adhere to the lines and silhouettes which characterized the fashions of the previous year, but many of the things shown surpass last season's creation in the variety of embroidery and the delicate ingenuity of treatment with braiddings and self-material.

In the collection of the well-known Renée for example, there was a crepe dress with narrow velvet ribbon posed in rows from shoulder to hem. In another model black crepe braid was stitched on with a vivid contrasting color. And there were such other ingenuities as grosgrain ribbon puffed and twisted in intricate design over an entire frock; heavy silk jacket with metal thread in vermilion pattern covering entire surface of another dress, and innumerable ideas making use of drawn work, plating and draping.

The gown shown today is designed for dinner wear. It is made of almond green chiffon velvet and trimmed with fine gilt beading, the skirt being slightly draped, and a pointed panel, also beaded, introduced at the side.

Indomitable Durant

It is said in automotive circles that W. C. Durant accomplishes what he plans; to him difficulties are so many spurs to greater effort, making one get on the faster.

He is the man who made the Buick. He conceived and organized General Motors, including Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland and Oldsmobile. Certainly a considerable monument to one man's tireless energy.

But now, when many men would be content to enjoy a well-earned vacation, he is up to the armpits in the business of launching the crowning effort of his career.

It's "just a real good car," Durant says. "If it's good enough for him to christen with his own name, it's good enough for us," said the trade, and in 141 working days after the announcement they contracted for $31,000,000 worth of Durant cars.

SHOOTING CASE TO HEAD GRAND JURY LIST NEXT MONTH

The cases of four officers bound over on charges of second degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Volney Nichols, on the Wilmington pike, September 5, will head the list of 12 or 15 cases to be considered by the new October Grand Jury when it convenes next Monday, October 2.

Whether the cases against Sheriff Lincoln Funderburgh, Deputy Sheriff Joseph Day and William Burns and Patrolman Charles Simms, who are charged with the fatal shooting of the Nichols boy and the wounding of his 3 companions will be among the first considered by the jury, is not known, and depends upon the convenience of the number of witnesses who will be summoned.

The grand jury will probably be in session at least three or four days this time, according to Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, for besides the number of cases to be considered the evidence to be introduced in the shooting cases, will take up considerable time. This fact indicates that it will be the last week before it is known whether indictments will be returned against the four officers on the charge indicated, as the grand jury sessions are secret, and a full report not made until the body is adjourned.

Because practically all of the evidence that will be introduced at the grand jury meeting has been heard in the inquest and is down in black and white in the transcript of the testimony taken, the state has little preparation to make for presenting the cases to the grand jury. Only the testimony of the state's side is introduced at grand jury sessions, and authorities are now merely marking time for the opening of the session. Funderburgh still continues in office as sheriff.

In the meantime Dorsey Nichols and Warren Middleton, injured during the tragic shooting affair, are still patients at Essey Hospital, where they were taken after they were injured, are both slowly recovering. Warren Middleton has been out of bed and able to walk around the hospital for several days, and he will probably be removed to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Middleton, on the Wilmington pike within a day or two. Dorsey Nichols is not so fortunate. He was able to be out of bed Monday for the first time and was up for two hours. He is gradually gaining strength, but no time has been set to take him home.

Many of the cases to come before the grand jury, will probably be nolle, it is believed, as many are of little importance, some being bound over under acts that constitute offenses no more serious than misdemeanors.

TESTED RECIPES

Creamed Cabbage—Cut small sized head of cabbage up finely, put in kettle with a small amount of water and cook until tender. When done, chop into still smaller pieces and add milk to cover, also a generous piece of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil and thicken with cornstarch to desired thickness.

Casserole of Chops—Sear the chops in hot fat in the frying pan, browning on both sides. Place one or two pieces of the meat in the bottom of a greased baking dish, then a layer of sliced raw potatoes, then meat until both are used up. Season with salt and pepper, add one cup of stock and hot water, cover and bake until tender.

Beet Salad—Chop fine several pickled red beets. Mix with chopped walnuts and celery. Place on lettuce leaves and add a good salad dressing.

FROZEN DESSERTS

Sunshine Parfait—Boil one cup sugar with one-quarter cup water until syrup spins a thread. Then pour, drop by drop, while beating constantly on three egg yolks. Cook over hot (not boiling) water until mixture coats the spoon. Beat until cold and add one tablespoon orange extract and two cups cream beaten until stiff. Pour into a mold, cover with buttered paper, adjust the cover and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let stand two or three hours. Unmold and garnish with candied violets or orange peel.

Pistachio Parfait—Boil one cup sugar and one-quarter cup water together until syrup will spin a thread. Pour slowly, beating constantly, on three stiffly beaten egg whites, and beat until cold. Add enough vegetable color paste to make a delicate green. Add two-thirds tablespoon vanilla and one scant teaspoon almond. Beat two cups cream until stiff. Add to sugar and egg mixture with one-half cup finely chopped pistachio nuts. Freeze, using three parts ice to one part salt.

SUGGESTIONS

To Clean Leather Bags—Brown leather traveling bags or other brown leather goods may be beautifully cleaned and polished by rubbing them well with the inside of a banana skin, then polishing with a soft dry cloth.

To Be Rid of Rats and Mice—Use red pepper and lard. Make a paste of it, spread around holes and where they walk. They will not come that way but once; spread thickly; it will last a long time.

To Be Rid of Moths—Sponge the clothes with gasoline, put away damp. Sprinkling chloride lime on the floors of closets is also good to keep them out.

LIVER TROUBLE TURNED HER SKIN AS YELLOW AS A PUMPKIN, MRS. RUST IS RELIEVED BY FAMOUS VIOIRA REMEDY

Yellow jaundice will make your skin as yellow as a pumpkin and so will any other ailment that attacks the liver, although perhaps to a lesser degree. When your liver is out of order you will feel bad all over.

But there is hope of obtaining quick relief if you take Viora Liver Remedy, which is now being introduced along with other Viora Remedies of Sohn's drug store.

Mrs. Anna Rust, 234 Rice Street, Springfield, says "I had liver trouble. My skin turned as yellow as any pumpkin. I couldn't eat any foods that contained sugar. If I did it aggravated my trouble. I could not sleep soundly and even a slight bit of work would tire me completely.

I have taken many remedies for my liver, but nothing ever helped me like Viora. I am now feeling so much better that I hardly know myself. My complexion has cleared and I have a good appetite. Work does not exhaust me as it did before. All of my neighbors tell me how much better I look. Today I did a big washing and canned fruit and I am not excessively tired tonight. I think Viora is fine and I am glad to recommend it."

There is a Viora Remedy for every ill, including liver and kidney trouble, stomach ailments, asthma, rheumatism, indigestion and dyspepsia. All are guaranteed. Viora Remedies may be obtained at Sohn's Drug Store.

SHOOTING CASE TO HEAD GRAND JURY LIST NEXT MONTH

The cases of four officers bound over on charges of second degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Volney Nichols, on the Wilmington pike, September 5, will head the list of 12 or 15 cases to be considered by the new October Grand Jury when it convenes next Monday, October 2.

Whether the cases against Sheriff Lincoln Funderburgh, Deputy Sheriff Joseph Day and William Burns and Patrolman Charles Simms, who are charged with the fatal shooting of the Nichols boy and the wounding of his 3 companions will be among the first considered by the jury, is not known, and depends upon the convenience of the number of witnesses who will be summoned.

The grand jury will probably be in session at least three or four days this time, according to Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, for besides the number of cases to be considered the evidence to be introduced in the shooting cases, will take up considerable time. This fact indicates that it will be the last week before it is known whether indictments will be returned against the four officers on the charge indicated, as the grand jury sessions are secret, and a full report not made until the body is adjourned.

Because practically all of the evidence that will be introduced at the grand jury meeting has been heard in the inquest and is down in black and white in the transcript of the testimony taken, the state has little preparation to make for presenting the cases to the grand jury. Only the testimony of the state's side is introduced at grand jury sessions, and authorities are now merely marking time for the opening of the session. Funderburgh still continues in office as sheriff.

In the meantime Dorsey Nichols and Warren Middleton, injured during the tragic shooting affair, are still patients at Espey Hospital, where they were taken after they were injured, are both slowly recovering. Warren Middleton has been out of bed and able to walk around the hospital for several days, and he will probably be removed to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Middleton, on the Wilmington pike within a day or two. Dorsey Nichols is not so fortunate. He was able to be out of bed Monday for the first time and was up for two hours. He is gradually gaining strength, but no time has been set to take him home.

Many of the cases to come before the grand jury, will probably be nolle, it is believed, as many are of little importance, some being bound over under acts that constitute offenses no more serious than misdemeanors.

TESTED RECIPES

Creamed Cabbage—Cut small sized head of cabbage up finely, put in kettle with a small amount of water and cook until tender. When done, chop into still smaller pieces and add milk to cover, also a generous piece of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Bring to a boil and thicken with cornstarch to desired thickness.

Casserole of Chops—Sear the chops in hot fat in the frying pan, browning on both sides. Place one or two pieces of the meat in the bottom of a greased baking dish, then a layer of sliced raw potatoes, then meat until both are used up. Season with salt and pepper, add one cup of stock and hot water, cover and bake until tender.

Beet Salad—Chop fine several pickled red beets. Mix with chopped walnuts and celery. Place on lettuce leaves and add a good salad dressing.

FROZEN DESSERTS

Sunshine Parfait—Boil one cup sugar with one-quarter cup water until syrup spins a thread. Then pour, drop by drop, while beating constantly on three egg yolks. Cook over hot (not boiling) water until mixture coats the spoon. Beat until cold and add one tablespoon orange extract and two cups cream beaten until stiff. Pour into a mold, cover with buttered paper, adjust the cover and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let stand two or three hours. Unmold and garnish with candied violets or orange peel.

Pistachio Parfait—Boil one cup sugar and one-quarter cup water together until syrup will spin a thread. Pour slowly, beating constantly, on three stiffly beaten egg whites, and beat until cold. Add enough vegetable color paste to make a delicate green. Add two-thirds tablespoon vanilla and one scant teaspoon almond. Beat two cups cream until stiff. Add to sugar and egg mixture with one-half cup finely chopped pistachio nuts. Freeze, using three parts ice to one part salt.

SUGGESTIONS

To Clean Leather Bags—Brown leather traveling bags or other brown leather goods may be beautifully cleaned and polished by rubbing them well with the inside of a banana skin, then polishing with a soft dry cloth.

To Be Rid of Rats and Mice—Use red pepper and lard. Make a paste of it, spread around holes and where they walk. They will not come that way but once; spread thickly; it will last a long time.

To Be Rid of Moths—Sponge the clothes with gasoline, put away damp. Sprinkling chloride lime on the floors of closets is also good to keep them out.

LIVER TROUBLE TURNED HER SKIN AS YELLOW AS A PUMPKIN, MRS. RUST IS RELIEVED BY FAMOUS VIOIRA REMEDY

Yellow jaundice will make your skin as yellow as a pumpkin and so will any other ailment that attacks the liver, although perhaps to a lesser degree. When your liver is out of order you will feel bad all over.

But there is hope of obtaining quick relief if you take Viora Liver Remedy, which is now being introduced along with other Viora Remedies of Sohn's drug store.

Mrs. Anna Rust, 234 Rice Street, Springfield, says: "I had liver trouble. My skin turned as yellow as any pumpkin. I couldn't eat any foods that contained sugar. If I did it aggravated my trouble. I could not sleep soundly and even a slight bit of work would tire me completely."

I have taken many remedies for my liver, but nothing ever helped me like Viora. I am now feeling so much better that I hardly know myself. My complexion has cleared and I have a good appetite. Work does not exhaust me as it did before. All of my neighbors tell me how much better I look. Today I did a big washing and canned fruit and I am not excessively tired tonight. I think Viora is fine and I am glad to recommend it."

There is a Viora Remedy for every ill, including liver and kidney trouble, stomach ailments, asthma, rheumatism, indigestion and dyspepsia. All are guaranteed. Viora Remedies may be obtained at Sohn's Drug Store.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS ARE ALL RECOVERING IN LOCAL HOSPITALS

All of the victims of the accidents that claimed motor parties on the Jamestown and Wilmington pikes Sunday evening, were resting comfortably and apparently recovering, according to reports Tuesday.

At the Espey Hospital, the four people injured when the automobile driven by Michael O'Connor crashed into the Caesar Creek bridge on the Wilmington pike, were apparently recovering as rapidly as could be expected.

Michael O'Connor, the most seriously injured, is suffering from a fractured skull, but while his injury is serious, it is believed he will recover. He has been conscious since the accident and physicians do not believe that the skull is pressing on the brain.

Mrs. O'Connor was painfully but not critically injured. She sustained a double fracture of the leg and a blow in the face, that knocked out five teeth. Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Snyder, the other victims of the accident, are recovering from body injuries they received, that will not prove serious.

Mrs. Anna Watson, Main and Columbus streets, injured on the Jamestown pike when the automobile in which she was riding with her daughter, Mrs. William S. Robinson, Bellbrook avenue, collided with a machine driven by Forest Fields, of Jamestown, was resting comfortably at the McClellan Hospital Tuesday. She suffered a broken left arm and fractured right knee cap.

Mrs. Sarah Fields, of Jamestown, who was believed to have sustained internal injuries in the accident, was apparently resting easily Tuesday morning and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Forest Fields, was also apparently recovering. Other members of both parties were injured, but not seriously.

Harold Kelly, driver of the Wilmington-Xenia auto bus, claims a speed record in his trip from the scene of the O'Connor accident at the Caesar Creek bridge, to the hospital here. Kelly assisted in putting up the injured people and putting them in his machine and then ran from the spot, four miles from Xenia to the hospital here in exactly four minutes. He was going toward Wilmington and had no passengers at the time of the accident, which made it possible for him to return to this city. The fast trip was made in a Pierce-Arrow touring car.

This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone learns upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 25 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. E. M. Burgess of Enfield, N. C., who is 73, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Charles Chorman of Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., wasted fifteen years and considerable money on other remedies before finding steady relief with Syrup Pepsin.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps. Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. E. M. Burgess of Enfield, N. C., who is 73, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Charles Chorman of Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., wasted fifteen years and considerable money on other remedies before finding steady relief with Syrup Pepsin.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps. Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and for you. There are four beds and anything else that you may desire you have but to ask for. Please consider my castle as your home."

TELLS EXPERIENCE WITHIN CASTLE OF EX-KAISER'S FIANCEE

The invitation was then extended by the princess to her unexpected guests to take tea with her.

The princess' maunty—that is to say, her cook, who, in this instance was white—prepared a wonderful dinner. Before the guests sat down to the table the princess ordered her butler to fetch some rare old wines from the cellar.

After some general conversation the talk naturally turned to the betrothal of the princess and the ex-kaiser—now an exile in Holland.

"Much has been written about my engagement to the kaiser," exclaimed the princess with some warmth. "Much has been said about it and still more is being whispered by gossips who have nothing else to do but stick their noses into the private affairs of other people."

"Surely my engagement and wedding are private. We both desire to be left alone. We wish to avoid needless publicity. We want to make the whole thing as simple and unostentatious as possible."

"All I can say is that most of the stuff published in connection with our engagement is silly nonsense. The affection and the friendship between the kaiser and myself are, by no means new. We have been chums since my girlhood. I have always looked up to the kaiser and admired him."

"The tragic events in both of our lives probably deepened affection."

The princess' eyes were moist with tears as she glanced at a portrait on the wall—a picture of her late husband. He was dressed in the uniform of the Dragoons with which he served in the great war. As a result of the war's hardships he contracted consumption. Throughout his illness the princess constantly and devotedly nursed her husband although her youngest child was then only a babe of two years.

Picture of Ex-Kaiser.

Upon a desk in another corner of the room stood a picture of the former kaiser, evidently a recent one. It shows William with only a mustache which makes it apparent that he, has again shaved off his beard. It was evident from the photograph that Wilhelm with only the mustache looks younger than William with a beard.

The above remarks were all the princess would say regarding her intimate affairs. She is a beautiful woman in the prime of life, radiating health and cheerfulness. She does not look her 36 years nor does she betray the fact that she is a mother of five children. She speaks English and French fluently and is well versed in literature.

A survey of her library showed books in English and French as well as German. Among the books observed by the writer were "Hero and Hero Worship," by Thomas Carlyle; the works of Lord MacAulay; the works of Charles Dickens and those of Mark Twain.

The International News Service correspondent was the first reporter ever admitted to the castle, although it must be admitted that only a near fatal accident opened the gates. This is an ancient feudal homestead with nothing in common with the inquisitive hurly-burly of the modern reporter. The house of Reuss is one of the oldest in German nobility and the traditional claim is that the family is equal to the Hohenzollerns.

To go back to the accident: As Strunk hobbled away from the scene of the crash past the huge castle barns he spotted a hearse among the cumbersome farm cars and wagons. It is the custom of great estates like this, employing many hundreds of persons to have their own hearse.

Strunk, who is an old hand at narrow escapes and adventures, grinned as he beheld the hearse.

"I guess," he remarked casually, "that the village undertaker was ready for us, but we fooled him this time."

LOCAL FOOD SELLERS DONATE INGREDIENTS USED IN PREPARATION OF TEMPTING DISHES

The choice products of Xenia grocers, dairies, and other food retail houses have been afforded the patrons of the Gazette and The Republican cooking school, staged this week at the McKinley School auditorium, the ingredients of all the foods prepared being donated by local business houses for the school.

The groceries donated in addition to be used in the dishes prepared were also contained in the foods that made up the baskets given away during the show. Premier brands of each food donated and demonstrated were used resulting in the most palatable of delicacies.

The flour used in the pastries prepared at the show was donated by the DeWine Milling Company, which chose Good Luck Brand as the excellence in wheat flour. Sally Ann Bread was donated by the Stiles Baking Company for the school. This store also donating sandwich bread.

Pasteurized milk, cream and butter-milk were donated by the Leveck Dairy, for the foods, creamy salads and dressings resulting from the pure milk and creams used.

On several days of the cooking school patrons will sample ice cream, that will be noticed for excellent flavor and smoothness, the cream being donated by the Red Wing Corporation.

Breaded meats, sweet breads, and other meats prepared in numerous delicious ways, were the product of the City Market, which furnished all the meats used during the school.

Groceries including sundry articles used in the foods prepared during the week were furnished by three local groceries, the Kennedy Grocery Company, the Waddle Store and Bradstreet's grocery.

The canned goods, of which the housewife, who visited the school learned many new and interesting things, were furnished by Eavey and Company, who also furnished miscellaneous articles for the show.

The Xenia Division of the Springfield Dairy Products Company furnished all the butter, and cottage cheese included in the ingredients of the viands.

USE ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Football players practicing with the American Legion eleven this week will do so with the aid of powerful electric lights.

Strong incandescents that will light up the Washington St. Ball Park will be placed in position so that the gridders can continue their practice sessions after dark next week.

The squad will practice at the ball park Sunday morning. Teams wanting games should communicate with Elmer Shaffer, manager.

HELPED HIS BACK

Backache, rheumatic pains, dizziness and blurred vision are symptoms of kidney trouble. "My husband had a bad back," writes Mrs. M. McCullough, Easton, Pa. "When he sat down he could hardly get up and then he would be drawn over to one side. He tried Foley Kidney Pills and they cured him." Foley Kidney Pills quickly relieve kidney and bladder trouble. PETENT
Chapter 80

Mr. Fallon was called to San Francisco on business, would be gone about two or three weeks. Nellie missed him dreadfully although, almost every day, there came letters or messages of some kind to her. Also an order had been left at the florist and her room was as gayly decorated as before.

His absence increased her work, her responsibility. She threw herself wholeheartedly into it; the Chief should find that she had neglected nothing, that the business had gone well in his absence. She paid no attention to hours, seldom going out to lunch.

The office boy brought her a sandwich and a bottle of milk; she also remained late at night.

"I'm afraid you'll make yourself ill," Mrs. Roberts said. "You are looking very tired."

"I'm all right," Nellie assured her, "and George must find everything has gone all right during his absence." Then, rather ruefully she added: "But I'm not getting my sewing done. It will be years, instead of months, before I get my clothes ready at this rate." She smiled as she said it but Mrs. Roberts understood.

"Get what you can, Nellie, and don't worry. A man seldom cares whether the woman he loves—"

"He would!" Nellie interrupted. "He couldn't help but notice if I didn't look somewhere near right. You see he has been all his life with people who have everything. I won't let him be ashamed of me—Miss Dorothy either. She's one of his family, if she is only a second cousin."

"I thought she was nearer than that!"

"So did I until just before George went away. She came in one day and I found it out by their talk. She is so lovely! I do wish I was like her. I don't mean in looks, even if she is so pretty; I mean in ways. So easy, whether she is in an office or at a dinner party. I get awfully discouraged every time I see her—yet I always learn something too. She doesn't come down now George is away."

Mr. Fallon's three weeks lengthened into a month. It was a very tired little private secretary and fiancée who greeted him on his return. He complimented her warmly upon her efficiency; declared the business had not suffered one whit by his absence, but expressed concern because of her tired look.

"We shall soon be married. Then I'll take care of you," he said tenderly.

"You'll let me help you—afterward, won't you?" Nellie asked.

"Help me be nappy, yes. We must be looking for someone to take your place here in the office. It won't be easy to find a secretary as faithful and competent."

Nellie said no more, yet she felt a bit sad to think someone else, another girl, would soon be sitting in her place; making herself necessary to Mr. Fallon. It wasn't jealousy. It was more a feeling of love for her work; that she would miss it, miss being with him all day long.

Now she again gave every moment away from the office to getting ready to be married. Again he insisted upon taking her to places of amusement occasionally; to dinner parties, although she laughingly told him she would never get ready if she didn't remain at home.

While he was away—she, busy in the office, had almost forgotten to worry over her shortcomings. But now they loomed bigger than before. She met others, men and women to the manner born, who did the right, the gracious thing instinctively not as she did, with effort.

"I don't make many mistakes in big things anymore," she told Mrs. Roberts. "And I have learned to keep still when they talk of things I know nothing about. But it is the little things that bother me. Things those other women and girls do so easily. I try dreadfully hard but I never go where there are a lot of them that I don't do something wrong. It's silly perhaps to care, to feel as I do but I can't help it. Miss Carter used to talk about a salt water fish in a fresh water pond. I guess I'm in!"

NELLIE PROVES HERSELF COMPETENT

Chapter 80

Mr. Fallon was called to San Francisco on business, would be gone about two or three weeks. Nellie missed him dreadfully although, almost every day there came letters or messages of some kind to her. Also an order had been left at the florist and her room was as gayly decorated as before.

His absence increased her work, her responsibility. She threw herself wholeheartedly into it; the Chief should find that she had neglected nothing, that the business had gone well in his absence. She paid no attention to hours, seldom going out to lunch.

The office boy brought her a sandwich and a bottle of milk; she also remained late at night.

"I'm afraid you'll make yourself ill," Mrs. Roberts said. "You are looking very tired."

"I'm all right," Nellie assured her, "and George must find everything has gone all right during his absence." Then, rather ruefully she added: "But I'm not getting my sewing done. It will be years, instead of months, before I get my clothes ready at this rate."

She smiled as she said it but Mrs. Roberts understood.

"Get what you can, Nellie, and don't worry. A man seldom cares whether the woman he loves—"

"He would!" Nellie interrupted. "He couldn't help but notice if I didn't look somewhere near right. You see he has been all his life with people who have everything. I won't let him be ashamed of me—Miss Dorothy either. She's one of his family, if she is only a second cousin."

"I thought she was nearer than that!"

"So did I until just before George went away. She came in one day and I found it out by their talk. She is so lovely! I do wish I was like her. I don't mean in looks, even if she is so pretty; I mean in ways. So easy, whether she is in an office or at a dinner party. I get awfully discouraged every time I see her—yet I always learn something too. She doesn't come down now George is away."

Mr. Fallon's three weeks' lengthened into a month. It was a very tired little private secretary and fiancée who greeted him on his return. He complimented her warmly upon her efficiency; declared the business had not suffered one whit by his absence, but expressed concern because of her tired look.

"We shall soon be married. Then I'll take care of you," he said tenderly.

"You'll let me help you—afterward, won't you?" Nellie asked.

"Help me be happy, yes. We must be looking for someone to take your place here in the office. It won't be easy to find a secretary as faithful and competent."

Nellie said no more, yet she felt a bit glad to think someone else, another girl, would soon be sitting in her place; making herself necessary to Mr. Fallon. It wasn't jealousy, it was more a feeling of love for her work; that she would miss it, miss being with him all day long.

Now she again gave every moment away from the office to getting ready to be married. Again he insisted upon taking her to places of amusement occasionally; to dinner parties, although she laughingly told him she would never get ready if she didn't remain at home.

While he was away—she, busy in the office, had almost forgotten to worry over her shortcomings. But now they loomed bigger than before. She met others, men and women to the manner born, who did the right, the gracious thing instinctively not as she did, with effort.

"I don't make many mistakes in big things anymore," she told Mrs. Roberts. "And I have learned to keep still when they talk of things I know nothing about. But it is the little things that bother me. Things those other women and girls do so easily. I try dreadfully hard but I never go where there are a lot of them that I don't do something wrong. It's silly perhaps to care, to feel as I do but I can't help it. Miss Carter used to talk about a salt water fish in a fresh water pond. I guess I'm in!"
